

SLATTERY'S DERRICK.

It Was Ready for Use When There Was a Chance to Secure Funds.

MONEY MADE HIS MARE GO.

That Million-Dollar Park Fund Was a Bonanza for Politicians.

AND THEY WERE IN EVIDENCE.

Pay Roll Shows Many Peculiar Features to Be Examined.

Mr. John Slattery, contractor, &c., appears to have been especially favored by the Park Board in work under the million-dollar appropriation. If there was a derelict in the recent Slattery case, it was a horse who was derelict. It was Slattery's animal that was trotted out, and when pay-day came it was Slattery who drew from the treasury of the million.

In one of the items of work, known as the improvement of Manhattan Square walks and drainage, Mr. Slattery's name appears, under date of July 18, as follows: "John Slattery, use of horse, $400."

The regulation for a horse, drum and man to work the same, was signed by A. B. Tappan, Park Commissioner. In it he calls for the man and the horse for a time not exceeding fifty days, at a cost of not more than $5 a day. Mr. Slattery played to the limit and put in the full number of days at the top price, without rebate. Result, $400.

Laborers have been paid, under this appropriation, $1.75 a day, while what are known as skilled laborers have been commanded as high as from $2 to $2.50. Men with "double teams" of horses have been paid at the rate of $4.50 a day. Yet Mr. Slattery comes in and for some reason as yet undiscovered, draws $5 a day for his man, horse and derrick. That one item was July 18. A trifle over a month later, on Sept. 23, he has another bill in. The million has evidently been too great for him to resist, and in the same item of work his derrick bolts up serenely with a $300 tag attached for labor and services. At that rate his derrick and his live stock have been more than paid for out of the appropriation.

Mr. Slattery has made it a point to say from time to time that the Park Board was acting under the greatest difficulties in trying to give men employment.

That is what he said to an "Evening World" reporter not long ago, "We wanted to put as many deserving men at work as possible, and we did everything necessary to provide for them."

That was why, probably, he signed the numerous vouchers for Slattery's services. But it doesn't seem as if he or very many other members of the Board made an effort to give the unemployed a chance. There have been several complaints on this subject received by "The Evening World," and the gentlemen of the Board may have some interesting facts to read soon.

The fact that work tickets were openly peddled and sold has already become notorious. It is well known that derelict men who should have had the work did not get it simply because they lacked the required influence. The money to buy a chance to perform honest labor at decent wages.

Here is the recital of figures that tell their own story of the million-dollar fund.
